INTRODUCTION

HIS booklet tells you something about the beautiful Gladiolus. It gives you just a little idea how they glory in this or that color; it relates what form they have and whether they are much or little vigorous in growth. If you are in need of it, this booklet gives you the information to grow the wonderful Gladiolus, and it tells you also the purchase price of each variety.

Some of the pages show a black-and-white reproduction of the product under discussion, but here we must say that it is a poor proceeding to show a live flower on cold, cruelly cold, dead, paper. The dainty, almost heavenly life in its purity is absent from such a picture and you stare at nothing but a blot of printer's ink. Well, it gives you the form, that's all the photographer and printer can do.

This booklet tells you also about the people who grow the Gladiolus Beautiful. They are Pieter Vos and Son, Gerrit Vos, who came to this country from the Netherlands a few years ago, with the stock of bulbs and bulblets they needed for propagating. They settled at Mt. Clemens, Mich., but soon found that the soil there was too much of a clay substance to suit the Gladiolus. Therefore they moved to this city as a result of a four weeks' surveying and prospecting of the different soils around Grand Rapids. They bought a forty acre farm near Fisher Station, 6 miles south of the city, where they reap the best bulbs they have ever seen for the last 17 years of their growers' experience.

Mr. Pieter Vos, who is a veteran grower and hybridiser of Gladioli, is in charge of the farm and warehouses. He has perfected quite a number of Hybrids, new forms, rare colors, fine substance of flowers and most vigorous in growth. The Vos-named varieties are marked with an asterisk in the Price List for the reader's convenience.

Gerrit Vos, who is manager of the office, came to this country five years ahead of his father and found that a few years of study at Calvin College of this city has helped him a great deal in conducting the business of the firm. He will be pleased to correspond with you and give you all the information and help in growing the Gladiolus you may stand in need of.

We grow varieties in any shade and color imaginable, some of which are high, but mostly low-priced. We have collections of bulbs in different varieties in reach of anyone's purse.

In conclusion, we would induce you to try and grow some of these bulbs. It is very simple as you can see by the general instructions printed on another page. A child can do it. If you have read this booklet and find that you have no use for the Gladiolus, which we hardly can imagine, we kindly ask you to pass it along to some of your friends who have. Well, we are at your service and hope to hear from you.

Respectfully yours,

P. VOS & SON.

GLAD. LOVELINESS

Cultural Directions

PLANTING Bulbs should be planted in a sandy soil or loam, about 6 inches apart and 4 to 5 inches deep. Pick out the sunniest spot of your garden because the warm sunshine is the most important factor in growing the bulbs with pleasing results. Spade in some manure in Fall before planting the following Spring. As soon as the frost is out of the ground you can start planting. In order to have a continuous supply of flowers it is advisable to plant at intervals of two weeks, viz: If you have 100 bulbs, plant 25 April 15th; 25 May 1st; 25 May 15th; and 25 June 1st. This will assure you the joy of having flowers all Summer and Fall, from July until November.

WATERING Water thoroughly at evenings only. Never allow the soil to become bone-dry, nor too wet. Do not allow a crust to form over the soil near the rows of plants. Cultivate and cultivate is the watchword. It is not necessary to work the soil deeper than two inches; do not work the soil when it is wet.

GLAD. FLORA

Cultural Directions

DIGGING As soon as the foliage turns yellow in Fall, cut off the foliage tops near the bulb, after taking the bulb up. Let the bulbs dry in the sun during the day you dig them.

STORING Before placing bulbs in storage allow them to dry one week, spreading them on burlap or anything of that sort. Then remove roots and old corm from bottom of the new corm. Place bulbs in wooden crates not more than 5 inches deep, otherwise they will get damp and start growing before the proper time. Bulbs will retain their vitality best if stored in a cool, dry place under a temperature of 40-50 degrees. Never let them get under a temperature below 32 degrees for they freeze easily.

If you need any additional information about the growing of the wonderful Gladioli, we will be glad to correspond with you.
